

12th Annual Breast Cancer and the Environment Research Program (BCERP) Meeting

TRANSLATING RESEARCH INTO ACTION TO REDUCE BREAST CANCER

November 16 to 17, 2017

DoubleTree by Hilton

924 West Huntington Drive, Monrovia, CA 91016

Take this opportunity to engage researchers, clinicians, advocates, and community members in discussion on reducing breast cancer risk through exciting scientific and policy presentations.

SESSION THEMES

Keynote Speaker: History of BCERP: Breast Cancer and the Environment

Linda Birnbaum, Director, National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences and National Toxicology Program

- Windows of Susceptibility for Environmental Exposures
- Endocrine Disruptors
- Breast Cancer Prevention and Lifestyle Risk Factors
- Community Contributions to Research and Public Policy
- Breast Architecture and Density
- Breaking Research

Working with Advocates and Community Partners to Improve Research:

Lunchtime Professional Development Seminar for New Investigators and Junior Scientists

The poster session will take place on November 16 at 3:30pm.

Visit bcerp.org/annual-meeting for the full meeting agenda.

This meeting is open to the public, community advocates, and researchers at no cost. Self-parking at the hotel is available. For other transportation options, consider using Uber/Lyft or a taxi.

Register at registration.bcerp.org. Visit: www.bcerp.org or contact info@bcerp.org for more information.